Morgan's Cavalry!

BY J. A. TURNER.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEWS:

There were sufficient men and ample courage to defend the place, but lack of discipline, and ignorance of the simplest maneuvers neutralized every effort of Col. Landrum to concentrate his forces at the various points where their presence was needed, and after a brief resistance the place was captured while Morgan was waiting for an answer from his men to surrender.

We were fired on from both right and left flanks and the battle was on, which only lasted twenty minutes. Morgan's loss was six killed and thirteen wounded. The Union loss was twenty-three killed, forty-five wounded and about three hundred captured. From Cincinnati Morgan marched to Paris, where he camped for the night and on the following morning he left for Winchester where he was joined by a company of recruits under Capt. Jennings. While Morgan was thus marching at easy stages through the northwestern portion of the State, awaiting his forces and recruiting his men with little loss and at trifling expense, a condition of the most perfect bewilderment seems to have taken possession of the Union forces at Lexington and Frankfort. With troops sufficient to have surrounded him at any of the points above mentioned, they were marching hither and thither, but always returning to their camps at night.

At Crab Orchard and Somerset 100 government wagons were captured and burned and several wagons loaded with blankets, shoes and other stores, much needed in the South, were taken along with the column to Sparta, Tenn. Enough of spare horses, guns and saddles were captured to supply all the men who had been left behind. In twenty-seven days Morgan had traveled over 1,000 miles, killed 400 men, his forces and captured 1,400 volunteers, troops at a loss of about sixty of his men.

Gen. Bragg and Smith were at this time making arrangements to invade Kentucky and Morgan was directed to precede them and inflict as much damage as possible upon the Louisville & Nashville Railroad. Selecting Gallatin, Tenn., as the first point to strike, he set out for that point on the 10th of August and on his way was joined by Capt. Joseph Desha with a company of the Twenty-Eighth Kentucky Infantry (Volunteers), was captured. Two miles distant from the town, but the commander, Col. Boone, slept in Gallatin. Capt. Desha was sent forward when the column had passed Hartsville to capture the Colonel, who according to the advice of Morgan wrote the commanding officer of the regiment to surrender without resistance. This was done and 200 officers and men were paroled and sent northward. A railroad bridge between Gallatin and Nashville was destroyed and a tunnel 800 feet long was rendered impassable for months. Two stockades were captured and 120 soldiers paroled, but the attack upon a third was repulsed with considerable loss.

A battle that took place on the following day with a detachment of cavalry under Gen. B. W. Johnson was more successful. The respective forces were about equal, with the advantage of experience largely on the side of the Confederates. Gen. Johnson's command was swept away. He was captured and 270 of his men taken prisoners, 48 killed and 119 wounded, with a loss to the Confederates of but seven killed, 16 wounded. Gen. Johnson complained but few of his men would fight in this option I differ. They attacked with spirit and without hesitation and were unable to stop with us on account of their heavy loss in men and horses. They returned twice or three times to the attack until they found their efforts unavailing. They could not use their Sabers, and they found their breech loading carbines of only incommensurate. Morgan made his camp at Hartsville, where on the 22nd he was joined by Forrest with a portion of his command. Col. DuRoi's regiment received its twelfth command at this point, commanded by Capt. W. H. Jones.

A POLITICAL OPTICAL ILLUSION.

A republican contemporary insists that "there is today a well-defined issue between the north and the south in regard to the rights of the colored man." That is an inexcusable mistake for so well-informed a newspaper to make, even in the north. No such issue exists between the north and the south today and will not at any time in the future. The south simply insists that the privilege to vote is a grant from the state to those who are legally citizens of the state and the United States upon conditions named by the state and not in contravention of the constitution of the nation.

In that contention the supreme court of the nation has been with the south up to the present time. What it will do in the future remains to be seen, but it follows logically the course it has already indicated. It will hold with the south to the end.

If Ohio and Nebraska permit the negro to vote simply because he is an adult male citizen, and with no reference to the intelligence of his citizenship, the honesty of his action and the evils resulting to life and property to flow from his possession of the ballot, the south can make no objection to their positions.

But Nebraska and Ohio do not permit the negro to vote simply because he is an adult male citizen, but because he is a honest man and a helping hand. It stays misfortune from homes; it supports an invalid loved one, maybe; it is the loving, potent shield that protects many a family from the alms-house. All honor to the brave soldiers!"—Piano Star-Courier.

THE LAWYER'S APOLOGY.
Some years ago there was an old Judge on the bench in Berks County, whose decisions, in consequence of numerous reversals did not always command universal respect. One day, in case in which he was sitting, one of the lawyers lost patience at his inability to see things in a certain light, and in the heat of the moment, remarked that the intellect of the court was so dark a flash of lightning could not penetrate it. For this contempt the Judge showed a disposition to be very severe with the offender, and it was only after much persuasion by friends of the latter that he yielded and decided to accept a public apology. The following day the lawyer, accordingly appeared before his honor and made amends by saying:

"I regret very much that I said the intellect of the court was so dark a flash of lightning could not penetrate it. I guess it could. It is a very penetrating lightning."—Philadelphia Ledger.

HANDS OFF.
That is in no sense a new slogan Senator Hanna sounded at the Ohio republican convention. He has been shouting "hands off" ever since he got to be a "king maker."

After the election of McKinley in 1896 Mr. Hanna personally took charge of the pie counter and every Foraker republican in Ohio who had the temerity to go near hear heard the stentorian warbling, "hands off."

A corrupt politician in Ohio bribed the legislature into sending him to the United States senate.

"Hands off" he shouted to the investigating committee of the Ohio senate.

Eagan's "embalmed beef" was exposed.

"Hands off" when the brutalities in American camps were exposed.

"Hands off" when Ohio wanted to properly punish Rathbone and Neeley.

"Hands off" when General Miles wants to expose the rottenness of the imperialism in the Philippines.

"Hands off" when the investigation of the postal department began.

"Hands off" was screamed at Roosevelt when he went back hunting in Alabama for southern delegates.

"Hands off" was the reply when Foraker and Roosevelt wanted a Roosevelt plank in the Ohio platform.

And, standing in the convention, insolent as a whipped dog, seeing evidence of his waning power, "Hands off" he screamed to the people of Ohio, who realize that the time has come to lay hands on him and throw him bodily out of the United States senate.

"Hands off" was the slogan of fear, the cry of distress from a frightened political criminal brought to bay at last.

It is the people's turn to say "hands off" to Mark Hanna, and they should say it loud enough that he will hear it to his dying day.—Columbus Press.

A WORKING GIRL

"God bless the girl who works" said an old stager to a Star Courier reporter at the Moore House Sunday. "There are more of her like in this world," he continued, "and quite a few in Piano. She is brave and true, and noble. She is not too proud to earn her own living nor ashamed to be caught her daily task. She smiles at you from behind the counter, or desk or printers case. There is a memory saved on each silent garment. She is like a brave mountaineer already far up the precipitous climbing, struggling, rejoicing. The sight of her should be an inspiration to all. It is an honor to know this girl and be worthy of her esteem. Lift your hat to her as she passes by. Her hands may be stained by dish-washing, sweeping, factory or printers' ink, but it is an honest hand and a helping hand. It stays misfortune from homes; it supports an invalid loved one, maybe; it is the loving, potent shield that protects many a family from the alms-house. All honor to the brave soldiers!"—Piano Star-Courier.

ASSASSIN—NOT DEMOCRATS.

The editor of the Glasgow Times has been asked: "Do you know that the Hargis faction in Breathitt county is Democratic?"

The editor of the Glasgow Times does not know that the Hargis faction in Breathitt county is Democratic.

The editor of the Times does know that Judge Hargis, the leader of the Breathitt county faction, is a Democrat and a member of the Democratic State Central Committee—a position which he should at once resign, or be forced out.

The editor of the Times does know that J. B. Marcus was assassinated just after he fled notice of contest for office in Breathitt county, and that Jett, a nephew of Judge Hargis, is on trial for the murder.

But what has any of this, or all of this, to do with the present condition of affairs in Breathitt? No Democrat has any more right to assassinate a Republican than has a Republican to shoot a Democrat in the back. The assassin belongs to no party. He is an outlaw, a bloodthirsty beast, whose criminality is the duty of every brave, honest man. It is true that the murderers and assassins of Breathitt county are Democrats, then so much the more and stronger the reason why they should be relentlessly hunted down and brought to justice. Democracy is not the party of assassination.

The outlaws who are murdering justices and burning homes in Breathitt county are assassins—not Democrats.

FROM TEXAS.

ABBOTT, TEX., June 24, 1903.

Editor News:

It has been some time since I left my "old Kentucky home" and friends. I often think of them, so I take the privilege of writing a letter to all through the News. I am located 2 1/2 miles east of Abbott, a small station on the M. & K. T. R. R., in Hill county, which is a very fertile section of black wax land. We are having good rains, which were needed. Corn is looking well, wheat and cotton and oats are fine, cotton is small, owing to so much cool weather.

In thinking of my friends at home, often wonder what they are doing. I sometimes read a letter in the News from friends in various parts of the country, which are read with pleasure, one especially some time ago, from Sacramento, Ky., and J. McCool's letters are always read. Three schoolmates of my early days, I remember with pleasure, one in the South practicing his profession—in Gallatin, Ala.—another on the headwaters of Pettit's Fork, and the third, the Lord only knows, was in looking well, wheat and cotton and oats are fine, cotton is small, owing to so much cool weather.

A short time ago a Topeka young lady was troubled with a boil on her knee which grew so bad that she thought it necessary to call a physician. She had formed a dislike for the family physician, so her father suggested several others, and finally said that he would call in the physician with the bumpiest case who passed the house ever day. They kept a sharp lookout for him, and when he came along he was called in. The young lady modestly showed him the disabled member. The little man looked at it and said: "Why, that is pretty bad." "Well," he said, "what must I do?" "If I were you," he answered, "I would send for a physician. I am a piano tuner."—Ex.

BURNED AT THE STAKE.

Wilmington, Del., June 28.—A mob last night burned George F. White, a negro, at the stake at Price's Corners, four miles from Wilmington. The mob, consisting of 4,000 persons, stormed the workhouse, where White was confined on a charge of having assaulted and stabbed to death Miss Helen S. Bishop, the seventeen-year-old daughter of the Rev. Dr. A. E. Bishop. The crime was committed last Monday afternoon and ever since then there had been mutterings of lynching the man. During the attack on the jail four of the mob were shot by the prison guards. Before the torch was applied the negro confessed his guilt.

Weak and older people are more or less afflicted from inactivity of the kidneys. With feebleness and age the kidneys become sluggish and do not expel the impurities from the system that nature intended they should. For the purpose of this is especially intended; it is a natural way of restoring the kidneys to a healthy and active condition. Sold by M. Craven.

MAKING SURE.

Picking up the speaking table the managing editor called down to his chief assistant:

"Has the president of the First National bank read proof on the editorial page?"

"Yes, sir."

"Has the general manager of Street Railway company made his corrections?"

"Yes, sir."

"Has the president of the Consolidated Steel company put on his O. K.?"

"Yes, sir."

"Have you made the corrections ordered by the first vice president of the N. Y. & Z. railroad?"

"Yes, sir."

"Are you sure that the Eastern Confederated Telegraph and Telephone company is satisfied with the editorial on public ownership?"

"Yes, sir."

"All right. Run a red line across the top of the first page saying 'The Bugle is the people's paper, and start the press.'"

We had no intention of making further mention of the late unpleasantness in our town, further than writing the statement found elsewhere in this issue, giving credit to the officials, as they claimed they were entitled, in our former article, but the presumption assumed by the Spectator in advising us as to how we should act, necessitates a statement. That paper is out for law and order—some days behind the opportunity. It reiterated, in substance, our denunciations of the conduct of which we mentioned, at that time, and sought to create the impression that a vigorous and constant effort had been made to arrest and prosecute the offenders. Prof. Ratcliffe exonerates Mr. Staples, the deputy sheriff, from indifference on his part. The people of the town are acquainted with the conditions that actuated the News and they are fairly well advised as to the real efforts made by the Town Marshal and the interest manifested by the County Judge. Our article was intended to awaken and arouse, what seemed to us, indifference and to advance the general good of this community. It was not the product of malice nor was it the result of total ignorance, as we were charged, for there were ample reasons to justify the sentiment of the article, though defective in part in so far as we stated that no effort had been made, and which is corrected in this issue. This matter has been sufficiently aired, and our desire for peace and the welfare of the town forbids a fuller statement. We pass it, knowing that the people of the town have their own opinions, and further comment is useless; but up to this date no one has been brought before the bar of justice, though immediately after last week's issue one arrest was made. If the people of the town are satisfied with two efforts, it is sufficient.

Gov. Beckham's statement published in last Saturday's Courier-Journal, is clear and to the point. He takes up the affairs of Breathitt county, showing conclusively that he has done all in his power to bring about a better state of affairs. In replying to criticisms from Republican papers at home and abroad, he draws a contrast between their attitude at the time of Gov. Goebel's assassination and at present, and asserts that Democratic papers are unanimous in condemning the killing of Mr. Goebel and are not raising subscriptions to defend his assassins. He compares his pardon record with that of Gov. Bradley, and reminds his critics of the disorders in Clay county during Gov. Bradley's term. He says that he has been careful; has not allowed the pardoning power, and that he is willing to stand by the record.

Past Grand Master James W. Station, who met with a stroke of paralysis at Paris, Ky., two weeks ago, died last Saturday.

"Mr. Calhoun has done for the State what all of its Senators and Congressmen since the Civil War have been unable to do. His act toward is less than half that given by all other States for which services have been performed. However, Mr. Calhoun chances to be a Democrat under a Democratic Administration. To this fact can be attributed the howl of a partisan and unscrupulous Republican press that the State has been robbed. It has been repeated with constancy and vehemence in the attempt to create the impression that it is actually believed by the howlers themselves. Unfortunately for the success of the effort, the people of Kentucky have the habit of thinking for themselves, and the character of Mr. Calhoun's service is too clearly proven to be in jeopardy by misrepresentation." The above is from the Louisville Times and is offered as argument in favor of Governor Beckham's employment of Mr. Calhoun in the collection of a debt due the State about which Republican papers seek to make capital for their party. Any man whether he be Democrat or Republican, Populist or Prohibition, who can honestly say that Governor Beckham committed a crime against this State by employing a man of ability to collect the large sum that was collected and paying him liberally for it is a man of much prejudice indeed. All the people and publications in this State admitted at that time that the Governor had acted wisely. Since then Republican editors seek to make it a crime.

"With the three commercial Powers, England, Germany and the United States, exonerated over the tariff question, prospects for free trade are looking up. Free trade, at least among the great Powers which respectably upon the same industrial basis, is a logical and inevitable result of the increasing perception of high tariff evils, coupled with the tendencies of international commercial intercourse." The above is from the St. Louis Republic, whose editor has a national reputation as a writer, and whose opinions are sought by readers seeking information.

THE FLOP TOGETHER OUTLOOK

In the unforgetting Sun Randall days great news was laid upon the daily that in all essential things the two wings of the Democratic party should "flop together." It is not to the discredit of the Democratic party, either, that it has usually had two wings. The very spirit of democracy is such as to encourage delay, independence of thought and strife to establish a majority sentiment in the party. The habits of the republican party is different. It is by the official faction and the rank and file have been always drilled to follow the flag, no matter which way the losses carried.

Our venerable old friend of the marble heart, Senator Proctor, of Vermont, gently rubs his hand over the prospect, as he sees it, that the two democratic wings will not flop together in 1904 any more than in 1896 and 1900. Because he believes they will not he naively admits that the very certainty of the republican party at this hour might get badly tangled in a bunch of interrogation points—if two wings should happen to flop together in 1904.

Unlike Senator Proctor we believe the aforesaid wings will be found flopping together in beautiful harmony shortly after this time next year. We not know, of course, what trend events may take within the twelve months, but if matters inside the party make the same rate of progress meanwhile as they have made in the past year, the democracy will enter the campaign of 1903 with measures and men that will be virile, magnetic and have an equal show for victory with the republican platform and candidates.

Men who attempt to continue or create divisions in the party ranks will be no more entitled in 1904 to be called democrats than were those who bolted and defected the party in 1896 and 1900. The real effective democratic leaders of today are working to unite those voters of the nation who at heart are democrats, and so present to the nation a harmonious and triumphant party next year. We believe they will succeed and that whoever tries to prevent that success will be made to walk the plank. He can not claim any right as a mutineer on the democratic ship.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Prussian woman who poisoned four husbands and thereby lived the life of a fifth ought to be willing to suspend operations now and come to the philosophical conclusion that marriage is a failure.

Judge Hargis has a keen personal interest in the let-Win case. He is evidently determined to treat the boys so nice that they couldn't think of "peaching" or they drop through the trap.

Mrs. Carrie Myers, the wife of Harry Myers, a prominent Covington lawyer and politician, has sued for a divorce on grounds of desertion and failure to provide.

The change is made that President Roosevelt, during his Western trip, in the matter of his speeches, practiced a little trick on the public; that is, the speeches sent out to the public, through a representative of the Associated Press who accompanied him, were not the same made to the crowd he was addressing. It is further charged that he said some things, calculated to tickle the fancy of his Western audiences, which he would not be willing for the people of other sections of the country to hear. The trick was discovered by a Montana paper. A type-written copy of the speech he wanted the people to believe he made at that place was sent to a local paper, but the paper sent a stenographer of its own to take down what the President really said. On this occasion at least he said many things of a radical nature; things which he would not want to reach certain ears and certain business interests of the country, and which would jeopardize his chances of a re-nomination, were they reiterated in other localities.—Georgetown Times.

Mr. W. H. Cook tests the record in this county for getting his wheat crop from the field into four. On June 11 he cut his wheat, on the 20th he had threshed, and on the 22d he had delivered to the mill, where it will be ground into flour. From the field to the bakery in eleven days is about the quickest record for cutting and grinding wheat in this part of the State.—Smith's Grove Times.

H. P. G. Gilgewater, of Glasgow, was nominated for State Senator by democrats of the 19th district.

HE WAS A "MEAN MAN."

A Greenville merchant recently told us the following story. He says it is true. At any rate we believe it is true.

A good natured, well-behaved darkey named Joe, living in one of the North Texas towns, became disgusted with a lot of law breakers of his own color. Bad feeling was soon aroused between him and his colored brethren. One well meaning darkey took the law into his own hands by shooting and killing two of the "wretched trash." He was arrested promptly by a policeman and started towards the calaboose. Joe begged the man of the law to let him have just ten minutes and he would come right back and den he would never what do law do to him. "What do you want to do, Joe?" asked the policeman. "Dere's one more of dem no count niggers I want to kill, boss, and den I has done my duty," said Joe.

After the trial at which Joe was sentenced to hang, his wife called to see him. She asked him if she might bring the children to the hanging. Joe shook his head. After awhile she insisted that his children should be present on this important occasion. Joe again shook his head and said, "I dun told yer I don't want ma chillun to be at ma hangin'—a hangin' ain't no place for chillun, no how." At this his good wife grew angry and said, "Joe, yer alius wur a mean nigger and now you shows. Dis de last time you will ever have to give your own chillun plegder and rouse so mean you won't do it."—Ex.

Married in Death's Shadow.

It often happens that a couple is united in marriage when one is afflicted with consumption or a deep-seated cough or cold. There's danger in this it is marrying in the shadow of death. Immediate steps should be taken to expel the trouble. There's nothing will so quickly remove the danger as Dr. King's new discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. It's equally safe and sure for lung and throat troubles. Cure is guaranteed by druggists. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

NEGROES AND JUSTICE.

There is something wearisome and disgusting in the "damnable iteration" from northern sources that the negroes do not get justice in the courts of the south.

Suppose we say here and now that they do not—and take a couple of recent incidents to back up our contention.

A few days ago a negro in this city flimflammed a national bank out of over $600 by a paying teller's error in handing a couple of checks. Because of the negro's previous good character, although he confessed his theft and returned the larger part of the money, no prosecutor appeared against him and he went free and unwhipped of justice! We would like a northern instance to match this case of injustice to the negro.

In Texas the supreme court has just reversed a verdict of death passed upon a young negro who was clearly convicted of a criminal assault upon a young white girl. It appeared that he was under 17 years of age and the law forbids the hanging of a person under that age. Consequently, although his guilt was plain as the sun at noon and the penalty for his crime is death he goes free of that penalty!

With these cases at hand we do not think our assertion can be denied—that negroes often do not "get justice" in southern courts before white.—Atlanta Constitution.

A mob of 1,000 men surrounded the jail at Peroria, Ill., and clamored for the life of a negro who a few hours before had shot and killed Detective William E. Murphy. The absence of a leader was declared to be all that prevented the infuriated citizens from storming the prison in the face of the heavy guard thrown around by the authorities. The victim of this St. Louis, Ill., was during the afternoon and night cornered by a posse of enraged farmers bent on lynching an unknown negro, who had criminally assaulted two women. One of his victims, Miss Florence Bruno, aged seventeen, will probably die. The other, Annie Green, colored, may recover.

A Shelbyville dispatch says: Hon. G. G. Gilbert has not at all times shown his not being a candidate to succeed himself as Congressman by announcing positively that he will be in the race from start to finish.

Senator Hanna again declares that even if nominated for the vice presidency he would not accept it. He has no White House ambitions, he says.

President Roosevelt removed Judge McMillan, of the Supreme Court, of New Mexico on the charge of general immorality.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistence and unmerciful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Goldstick of Colusa, Calif., writes, "For 16 years I endured insufferable pain from rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across electric bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for liver and kidney troubles and general debility. Only 60c. Satisfaction guaranteed by druggist.

A NEAT PROGRAM.

Now that the Dedication Ceremonies of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition (the World's Fair) are so close at hand, the public is commencing to wonder what St. Louis has to offer in the way of entertainment to out-of-town visitors.

The Henderson Route (which is The World's Fair Line) has gotten out a very neat booklet, rest-posted size, which contains the complete official program of these ceremonies.

It is a modern piece of work in every respect, printed in green and red with gray antique cover and high grade enameled book stock inside.

Copies will be gladly furnished on application.

Swallowed Diamonds.

Matt Tracy, twenty years old, a school teacher, was arrested at Lexington and placed in jail in default of $800 on the charge of peddling State and county school examination papers. He is the son of Supt. F. A. Tracy, of Powell county schools, and was caught in the act of selling the papers for $20. When arrested two other sets of papers were found on him.
